

Quality Measure Improvement Guide for Delirium

Problem: Because delirium can be caused by several factors, including a medical condition or medication side effect, it can be difficult to treat. Yet the Centers for Medicaid & Medicare Services (CMS) counts effective delirium treatment as one of ten quality measures (QMs) in its Five-Star Rating. Your nursing home's performance is evaluated on these CMS regulations:

F319 A resident who displays mental or psychosocial adjustment difficulty, receives appropriate treatment and services to correct the assessed problem; and

Intent §483.25(f): The intent of this regulation is that the resident receives care and services to assist him or her to reach and maintain the highest level of mental and psychosocial functioning.

F320. A resident whose assessment did not reveal a mental or psychosocial adjustment difficulty does not display a pattern of decreased social interaction and/or increased withdrawn, angry, or depressive behaviors, unless the resident's clinical condition demonstrates that such a pattern is unavoidable.

Intent §483.25(f): The intent of this regulation is that the resident receives care and services to assist him or her to reach and maintain the highest level of mental and psychosocial functioning.

Solution: Briggs is your partner in helping residents with delirium reach and maintain their best possible mental and psychosocial functioning. We have assembled the exact documentation, charting, education and training, and medical supplies you'll need to achieve CMS goals related to delirium—and improve your CMS Five-Star quality rating. Remember, every Briggs form integrates industry best practices and has been recognized by customers as best-of-class.
