

Quality Measure Improvement Guide for Physically Restrained

Problem: Even the best-intentioned use of physical restraints—such as helping to prevent injury—can violate federal law. It also can negatively impact the number of stars your facility earns in the Centers for Medicaid & Medicare Services (CMS) Five-Star rating program. Assuring that the use of restraints is medically necessary is one of 10 CMS quality measures used in the system, and is based on these regulations:

F221 Use F221 for deficiencies concerning physical restraints. Use Guidance under F222.

F222 The resident has the right to be free from any physical or chemical restraints imposed for purposes of discipline or convenience, and not required to treat the resident's medical symptoms.

Intent §483.13(a): The intent of this requirement is for each person to attain and maintain his/her highest practicable well-being in an environment that prohibits the use of restraints for discipline or convenience and limits restraint use to circumstances in which the resident has medical symptoms that warrant the use of restraints.

Solution: Improve your nursing home's compliance with the CMS physical restraint requirement and watch your Five-Star quality rating—and your ability to attract and retain residents—improve. To help, Briggs has assembled the specific documentation, charting, education and training, and medical supplies you'll need. Every Briggs form integrates industry best practices and has been recognized by customers as best-of-class... you know you're getting the best solutions available.
